Are your critical procurement decisions based on high-quality data?

High-quality data = accurate + complete + consistent + up-to-date + valid + reliable + duplicate-free

Poor data quality is more than just an inconvenience, it leads to Procurement leaving millions of dollars on the table without knowing it. Enterprises struggle with siloed, messy data scattered across different systems, currencies, and languages. Resulting in missed savings, inefficient processes, and a lack of trust from stakeholders.

Get 3x more accuracy with Sievo's data cleansing & categorization AI

Generic AI struggles in procurement because it isn't based on real, large-scale, and well-structured spend data. It's reflected in the fact that generic AI-models cannot make an impact because it needs to be fed with high-quality data before it can give a high quality output. This is where we shine: Sievo's AI is trained on the 2%+ of global GDP in spend we process and cleanse annually – on top of that, Sievo's AI continuously learns from cross-customer patterns and feedback.

Maintain control while Sievo takes over the responsibility

Awarded with best-in-class Data Management for multiple consecutive years by Spend Matters, Sievo is also the only procurement analytics provider that takes end-to-end data accountability, while delivering the industry's highest data quality.
